PRESIDENT IS SCORED

Representative Fitzgerald Criticizes His Course.

IS NOT AN AUTOCRAT

Chief Executive Is Reminded That He Has Not the Right to Either Originate or Enact Legislation of Any Kind.

Washington, April 5.—Mr. Stephens of Texas called up in the house the bill opening to settlement 50,000 acres of land in the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache Indian reservations. He stated that the bill had passed the house early in the session, but some objection was made to it by the commissioner of Indian affairs, and it was therefore recalled from the president and his objections met by incorporating into the bill the features desired by the commissioner.

Mr. Fitzgerald of New York said that the manner in which the bill was recalled from the president was most unusual. That he objected to the "back door" way in which the bill was returned to congress, and thought the chief executive should have either signed or vetoed the bill, the right which he has undertaken.

Mr. Fitzgerald was severe in his strictures on the president, during the course of which he said: "This is not Russia. The president is not like the czar, who originates and enacts legislation. The president may recommend, but he can neither originate nor enact legislation."

"Somebody may say this is trivial. The history of all governments which have parliamentary institutions show that the failure to resist trivial encroachment on the part of the chief executive has led to vast encroachments until the executive branch of the government existed in name only." The bill was finally passed without division.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

Among the Members Are Longworth and J. S. McGuire.

Washington, April 5.—The Republicans of the senate the house of representatives met in joint caucus at the close of the session of the house Wednesday and elected members of the Republican congressional campaign committee. Senator Allison called the caucus to order. In so doing he directed attention to the fact that this was the first step in a campaign which would doubtless prove very interesting, and the importance of which was apparent. He nominated Speaker Cannon as presiding officer of the meeting, and the speaker was received with applause. He, too, spoke briefly of the situation, indicating that the campaign was already being made, and the result depended on legislation enacted. The committee was then named.

A meeting of the committee for organization will be called either the last of the week or the first of next. Representative Longworth is to be member for Ohio and Delegate McGuire for Oklahoma.

RAILS SPREAD.

Three Passengers Thrown Through Windows Into a Mud Hole.

Fort Smith, April 5.—Spreading rails caused two Pullman cars of a St. Louis and San Francisco train to break loose and roll down a twelve-foot embankment in Folsom. J. W. Keating of Chicago, H. R. Brinker of Louisville and J. A. Hargrove of Sulphur, Tex., were thrown through windows of the observation car as it rolled down the embankment, landing in a deep mud hole. All three sustained sprains.

Mrs. Thompson and daughter of Pittsburg, Ill., were rolled about in the car. Mrs. Thompson being seriously internally injured.

SETS FIRE TO HERSELF.

Terrible Agony That a Widow Inflicts Upon Herself, Dying.

Lewisville, Tex., April 5.—Mrs. Claiborne, widow of the late W. H. Claiborne, who lived about ten miles west of Lewisville, and who died about two months ago, some time in the night, unknown to the family, saturated her clothing with turpentine and coal oil and went out into the lot, climbed into a box, set fire to her clothing and was burned to death. Her remains were not found until Wednesday.

JUMPS INTO DITCH.

Train Ran Into the Woods Before It Was Stopped.

Norfolk, Va., April 5.—Between this city and Suffolk a fast train ran through an open switch, jumped into a ditch and went into the woods before being stopped. The engineer was picked up badly injured twenty feet ahead of the engine. Six other persons were hurt. The train careened, but did not turn over.

POSTPONED TILL 1907

Baptists of North America Not to Meet at Louisville.

NEGROES CAUSE THIS

Members of Denomination in Falls City Wished Black Brethren to Occupy Balconies and Later Declined.

Louisville, April 5.—The executive committee of the General Baptist Convention of America, organized one year ago at St. Louis, has decided to postpone the meeting arranged for Louisville May 15 and 16 next until next year. The committee favors holding the convention somewhere in the vicinity of Jamestown, Va., during the decennial exposition commemorative of the founding of that settlement. The Louisville committee on arrangements experienced difficulty in securing a church in which to hold the convention, local Baptists being averse to negro members of the denomination assembling with them. An arrangement had been made whereby the whites and blacks were to assemble in the same edifice, but the negroes were to occupy the balconies. This, however, was resented by the latter, who claimed their representation would be reduced, owing to there not being sufficient seating capacity in the balconies. This matter, however, is not mentioned in a statement issued by the executive committee. In this statement the committee says, in deciding to hold the convention at Louisville it was thought a large and representative assemblage of Baptists, both north and south, would result. "Inasmuch," says the statement, "that satisfactory railroad arrangements cannot be secured and other causes are likely to interfere with a truly representative gathering of American Baptists, the executive committee deems it wise to postpone the meeting until May, 1907."

ENGLISH SPINNERS.

Party of Them Investigating Cotton Conditions in South.

New Orleans, April 5.—A party of English spinners, who have been making a tour of the south, reached here Thursday, and after visiting the British consul appeared on the floor of the Cotton Exchange. The party is accompanied by President McCall of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' association and railway officials. They spent Wednesday at Greenville, Miss., where they were met by President Taylor of the National Ginners' association and banqueted. They will stay here long enough to get a thorough knowledge of the local cotton situation and then proceed to Texas, making their first stop at Houston.

Among the matters which they are considering are propositions to purchase southern lands on which to raise cotton for British spinners.

SPINNERS' STOCKS.

English Operators Have on Hand Million and Half Bales.

New Orleans, April 5.—In a statement issued Thursday by the English Cotton Spinners' association that it barely has on hand a six months' supply of cotton—1,500,000 bales, 800,000 American. In consequence New Orleans cotton market went up 10 to 11 points on old crop months Thursday shortly after opening. New crop months were sent up 5 to 6 points.

HEAVILY INSURED.

Banker Burdett Carried Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars.

Eufaula, I. T., April 5.—J. Burdett, president of the Eufaula National bank and head of a large mercantile concern, who was assassinated on his back porch Tuesday night, carried $250,000 life insurance. He leaves a widow, but no children. He was shot in the temple, a portion of his skull being torn away.

SUIT DISMISSED.

Judge Did This Because No One Appeared For the Plaintiff.

Omaha, April 5.—The sensational suit filed by Miss A. C. Wood against United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, William Loeb, secretary to the president, and former Postmaster General Wynne for $150,000 damages, was called in court and dismissed by Judge Kennedy because no one appeared for the plaintiff.

COMPLETELY DESTROYED.

An Immense Lumber Plant at Denver Wiped Out by Conflagration.

Denver, April 5.—Fire completely destroyed the plant of the Hallack Lumber and Supply company, at Thirty-ninth avenue and Gilpin street, entailing an estimated loss of $300,000; fully covered by insurance. The plant covered an area of twenty acres and the flames swept clean millions of feet of lumber and several buildings. Origin of the fire is unknown.

BRYAN, TEXAS, APRIL 6, 1906

Encourage the diversificationist and trucker and he will turn much of our land into orchards and gardens, increase our wealth and enhance property values.

It is to be hoped that the coal operators and strikers will have it out and get through with it while the weather is warm, and the ice man has his inning.

The intercollegiate base ball season this year is practically the A. and M. College against the field, the College team having last year's brilliant record to their credit, and the Eagle believes they will hold first place.

Wherever the writer has met former Bryanites in other cities of the state they have have spoken in warm commendation of Bryan and her people, and their loyalty is most commendable. Some of us do not realize what a good town we have until we get away and make comparisons.

The pastor will be ably assisted by Evangelists F. T. Martin and J. F. Hailey. These men have held great meetings all over the entire country from the mining camps in the far west to the university cities in the East, and from the lakes to the gulf. In order to get them Dr. Butler put in an urgent invitation a year ago.

Dr. Hailey arrives Saturday and will preach Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., and will preach daily all next week. Evangelist Martin will remain in Rockdale a few days winding up the meeting there. Dr. Hailey is not only a strong preacher, but is a splendid singer. Evangelist Martin is one of the great preachers of the world. Let the people of Bryan and Brazos county come to these services,

Simple Way to Cure Catarrh by Hyomei Without Stomach Dosing.

It is the height of folly to dose the stomach with internal medicines to cure nasal catarrh. It cannot be cured except the catarrhal germs that are present in the nose, throat and lungs have first been killed.

The soothing air of Hyomei heals the smarting and raw membrane of the air passages in the nose, throat and lungs, kills off the catarrhal germs and rids the system of the last traces of catarrh.

The complete Hyomei outfit consists of a hard rubber inhaler which can be carried in the purse or vest pocket, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei, and costs only one dollar, while extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

E. J. Jenkins positively guarantees a cure when Hyomei is used in accordance with the simple directions on the package, or he will refund the money. This certainly shows his faith and belief in the virtues of Hyomei.

BANKER SLAIN.

One of the Best Known Men in Indian Territory Shot to Death. Eufaula, April 5.—J. Burdette, president of the Eufaula National bank, and head of the Burdette Mercantile company, was shot to death by an unknown person. His body was found on the back porch of his residence early Wednesday. From appearances he had been dead for several hours. He was forty-five years old, and leaves a widow.

"I believe Burdette was assassinated in cold blood," said one of his intimate friends who lives in South McAlester. "He had some very bitter personal enemies, and had frequently expressed fear of assassination. Two or three years ago his store was burned out at Eufaula, and he always used to say that he was satisfied the fire was of incendiary origin, and that the men who set it afire would ultimately kill him."

THE MARKETS.

KANSAS CITY CATTLE AND HOGS.

Special to the Bryan Eagle.

Kansas City, Mo., April 2.—The quarantine cattle market advanced 10 to 20 cents last week, and is strong and active today. The supply is 48 cars today, nearly all good steers, and record-breaking prices are being paid. Three droves of the Johnson steers from Chickasha sold at $5.40, $5.50 and $5.60 today, the highest prices in the quarantine division since the high prices of 1902. Bulk of the balance of the steers today sold at $4.65 to $5.00, one or two droves at $5.05, and a few light steers at $4.00 to $4.40; cows $3.00 to $3.50; not very good, no bulls to speak of; they are selling at $3.15 to $3.75, in the last week. Quarantine receipts for March were 409 cars, against 422 cars same month last year, and for the first three months receipts in quarantine division are about a stand off with last year. General cattle receipts are considerable heavier than last year so far, the slaughter of the packers having increased 39 per cent the first three months this year over same period last year. The market was strong on killing cattle most of last month, and same healthy conditions are apparently good for some time yet.

Hogs sold higher all last week till Friday, but closed the week 5 cents lower than high time. A feature was the increasing value placed on light weights; hogs below 200 lbs. selling only 5 cents below the top now. Market opened strong today, but broke 5 cents before the close; top $6.40, bulk of sales $6.25 to $6.37. Run today 9000 head. Dealers expect liberal supplies and lower prices this week.

J. A. Rickart.

Live Stock Correspondent.

Contradictory.

"Has your son arrived at years of discretion?"

"Oh, yes. He's about to be married."

"How you contradict yourself!"—Cleveland Leader.

All pain must be to teach some good in the end.—Browning.

Fleshmaking Food.

Cream gruel, according to an eminent English authority, is the ideal nourishment for thin folk. A teaspoonful taken at night immediately before retiring is said to give marvelous results. To be at its best it must be perfectly made, then thinned with sweet cream. Taken in that condition and warm, it is agreeable as well as fattening and produces just that sense of satisfied hunger essential to ideal rest. It is claimed that perseverance in the treatment yields such apparent results that the cheeks can be seen to expand from day to day.

The Pepper Vine.

The pepper vine grows best in a wooded valley where there is plenty of moisture and abundant foliage to protect it from the heat of the sun. It is given a rude sort of cultivation. The growers plant it, keeping the grass from its roots, and when the tree near which it is planted has no lower branches strings or poles are placed in proper position to enable the vine to climb the tree. It needs no further attention.

Sarcastic.

"Yes, my dear; I believe in transmigration of souls. I may be a brute in my next life."

"Wouldn't that be discouraging—or don't you care for a change?"—Houston Post.

In Plain Words.

"What," asked the judge, "was the cause of the altercation?"

"I didn't see anny, yer honor, but it was him callin' me a liar that shtarted the fight"—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Bengal canal, 900 miles in length, is the longest artificial water course in the world.

Why He Resigned.

The French Baron Rothschild once had in his service a valet named Alphonse, first class, but an acknowledged "red." This valet obtained permission once a week to attend the meetings of his Socialist lodge. Suddenly the baron noticed that Alphonse no longer desired this off night and, inquiring into the cause, was informed that the valet's late Socialist colleagues had worked out a calculation that if all the wealth of France were divided equally per capita each individual would be the possessor of 2,000 francs. "Monsieur," said Alphonse, with dignity, "I resigned. I have 5,000 francs!"—Aronaut.

Henpecked Husbands.

Henpecked husbands are found even in India. A writer says: "To live as I have done in a Hindoo house, especially when the real house mistress is a masterful and deeply religious widow, who is grandmother to the babies and mother to their parents, is no longer to wonder at the absolute terror with which men speak of the 'stri achchar.' For the men of India are, poor souls, the most henpecked in the world."

Too Much Heart.

"And you rejected him?"

"I did."

"He has the reputation of being a large hearted man."

"That's the trouble with him. He is too large hearted. He can love half a dozen women at the same time."

Candy and the Flag.

The following is accredited to the late Senator Hoar: At a Fourth of July celebration in a Canadian town where both English and American guests were assembled the flags of the two countries were used in decorations. A frivolous young English girl, loyal to the queen, but with no love for the stars and stripes, exclaimed: "Oh, what a silly looking thing the American flag is! It suggests nothing but checkerberry candy." "Yes," replied Senator Hoar, "the kind of candy that has made everybody sick who ever tried to lick it."

Charity.

Charity is a universal duty which it is in every man's power sometimes to practice, since every degree of assistance given to another upon proper motives is an act of charity, and there is scarcely any man in such a state of imbecility as that he may not, on some occasions, benefit his neighbor.—Johnson.

The taste of beauty and the relish of what is decent, just and amiable perfect the character of the gentleman and the philosopher.—Shaftesbury.

CHRIST CHURCH ORGAN ACCEPTED
F. M. Law Places $7,000.00 Hutchings-Votey Organ in Christ Church at Houston—Splendid Endorsement.

Mr. F. M. Law, general manager Southwestern Department Hutchings-Votey Organ Company of Boston, returned yesterday morning from Houston, where he went to have the big new pipe organ in Christ Church, Houston, accepted. This organ cost over $7,000, and is just completed.

The rector and music committee and organist met Mr. Law and an exhaustive test of the organ was made. Following this test, the following statement, given below in full, was issued by the church authorities. Mr. Law expresses himself as being delighted with the organ and he is naturally very much gratified that the officials of Christ church are well pleased.

In conversation with an Eagle reporter, Mr. Law stated that Texas is a promising field for pipe organ business just now, and he expects to close several important contracts in the near future. He said:

"I can prove beyond cavil to any unprejudiced committee that cause the committee was searching for the very best to be had, and after a full investigation the committee was of the opinion that this company stood at the head of their profession.

We take pleasure in stating that the organ as it stands complete in Christ church is, in our opinion (in which opinion our organist, Mr. Horton Corbett, G. O., concurs), a complete vindication of our original judgment and an artistic triumph for the builders. And we are convinced that when the organ is augmented, as will be done at once, there will be nothing left to desire. (Signed)

OLD TIME LEGAL METHODS.
When the Evidence of Ghosts Sufficed to Hang Men.

The testimony of a ghost would not count for much in a court of law, but the day has been when it has sufficed to hang a man. There was a ghostly accuser in a case with which the readers of Scott are familiar. Soon after the "45" an English soldier wandering near Braemar met a violent death. Years passed and then came a story of a communication from another world.

A farm servant declared that in the night a spirit had appeared to him declaring itself to be the ghost of the soldier, whose bones, it is said, lay still buried. The Highlander must see to their decent interment and have the murderers, two men named, brought to justice. The Highlander promised, but did not keep his word, and a second and third time the spirit appeared and upbraided him for his breach of faith. Alarmed at last and no longer daring to delay, the man called a companion and went to the spot which the spirit had indicated and there found the bones of the murdered warrior concealed in a moorland tract called the hill of Christie.

The story of the Highlander came to the ears of an anti-Jacobite, who caused the matter to be brought to trial before the court of judicary, Edinburgh. There the tale was corroborated by a woman who had seen a naked figure enter the place on the night spoken of by the man. It was an age of superstition in a district more than commonly given to superstition, and the jury seemed disposed to find the two men charged guilty of the murder, but it happened that the principal witness spoke only Gaelic. "Now," said the counsel for the defense, "in what language did the ghost speak?" "In as good Gaelic as I ever heard in Lochaber," was the reply. "Pretty good for the ghost of an English soldier," said counsel, and that question and comment saved the necks of the men at the bar. The jury could believe in a ghost, but not in an English ghost speaking Gaelic.—London Standard.

NAMING A TOWN.
How Abilene Came to Be Selected by Mrs. Hersey.

Abilene was named by the wife of the founder of the town, T. F. Hersey. With her husband she had come to central Kansas in the spring of 1857. They lived in a log house on the west side of Mud creek and were the first settlers on the town site, although no town then existed nor was there one until 1860. Then C. H. Thompson, who had moved to the county from Leavenworth, bought from the Kansas Pacific Railway company a tract east of Hersey's and laid out a town.

When it came to the naming of the future city Mr. Thompson went to Hersey and asked him to suggest a name.

"No," was the reply, "let my wife do it. She is a great reader."

Mrs. Hersey was a graduate of a seminary in the east, and her little library, which she carried with her in her wanderings, was one of the ties that bound her to the girlhood life. She was a devout Methodist and knew her Bible from "cover to cover." When she was asked to name the town she turned to the New Testament for suggestion. There, in the third chapter of Luke, first verse, she found this: "Now in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judaea * * * and Lysanias the tetrarch of Abilene."

"Call the town 'Abilene,'" said she. "It means 'City of the Plains,' and that exactly describes the location."

So Abilene it was, and in the fight for the county seat, wherein it contested with Newport, Smoky Hill and Union City, all long since passed away, good fortune attended it, and the new town became the county capital for the 378 dwellers then in Dickinson county.—Kansas City Star.

A Poisonous Frog.
People in general look upon all species of the frog as being perfectly harmless. Should you be traveling in New Granada (United States of Colombia), however, you would do well to let a certain little tree croaker severely alone. He secretes a poison equally as deadly as that of the rattlesnake. It exudes from his skin in the shape of a milky liquid and is used by the natives as a poison for their arrows.

THE BLUEFISH BRIGADE.
What Happens When the Blues Make a Charge Upon Menhaden.

"When menhaden or herring are driven upon the beach by bluefish, as they often are, so that they can be carried off by the cart load," said a fisherman, "there is very seldom found among them one of their pursuers, and if one is found it is likely to be a fish that is diseased or that has been hurt in some way. The bluefish follows to the very verge of the water, but there it stops, and it is so powerful and alert a swimmer that, close as it is, it still easily keeps clear of the land. The menhaden or herring are no mean swimmers. They could come as close and keep off the shore as easily as the bluefish do, but not when the bluefish are after them. Then they are like men pursued to the edge of a precipice. It is almost certain death to jump, but they must do that or turn and take the chances of breaking through the pursuing line."

"When the bluefish—there may be 3,000 or 4,000 of them together—sight a school of menhaden, they go for it like a brigade of heavy cavalry, cutting and slashing, snapping and biting right and left. The menhaden are simply overborne by superior weight, and there is nothing for them to do but flee. If they are driven toward the shore, the land is to them what the precipice would be to the man. They must take it or they must turn and try to fight their way through. Many do turn and try to swim under or over or around the savage bluefish, and some escape in this way, and some are snapped up, and some are maimed and then cast ashore, and many of them, crowding together, are so closely pressed that they are practically forced ashore."

"Sometimes fish that are not cast up very far flop down into the water again. A fish thus liberated may find its fins so damaged that it can't swim, and it is cast up again. Weakened by its rough experience, it may fall a prey to some of the bluefish yet lingering offshore. It may escape."—New York News.

SERIES OF SHIPWRECKS.
The Most Singular Chain of Marine Accidents on Record.

The most singular series of shipwrecks on record began with the loss of the English merchantman Mermald, which was driven on the rocks of Torres strait in October, 1829. The officers and crew clung to the shattered vessel, which was held fast upon a sunken ledge, until, a few minutes before the doomed ship went to pieces, a passing frigate picked them up.

The Swiftsure, as the latter craft was called, resumed her northward course, to be foundered in a terrific gale three days later.

Her combined crews were saved by the warship Governor Ready, en voyage to India, May 18, 1830. The last named, overtaken by a storm, was stranded on a barren coast, her three crews to a man succeeding in reaching the shore.

After staying a week on the inhospitable island they were taken off by the revenue cutter Comet, which a few days later sprang a leak and sank in spite of all efforts to save her.

Fortunately a rescue ship was again on hand, the four crews being saved by the Jupiter.

Even then, however, the chain of disasters was not broken, for the Jupiter just as she was entering the harbor of Port Raffle turned turtle and went down with scarcely a moment's warning. Her crews barely escaped with their lives, to be picked up by boat sent to their aid.

Thus the crew of the Mermald was wrecked five times in one voyage, that of the Swiftsure four times, of the Governor Ready three times and the Comet twice.

The rescues had been purely accidental in every case, none of the ships having been sailing as a consort or even to the same port.

Though the weather had been tempestuous and the escapes barely made, not a life had been lost.

Safe.
In a mediaeval German tale it says that the parish council of a small village met one evening to discuss certain improvements in the water supply. In this debate the town's one watchman entered the room quietly, placed in a corner his lantern and spear and sat down to listen to the argument. Suddenly a councilman turned to him fiercely.

"Fritz," he cried, "what are you doing here? Who is to watch that nothing is stolen in the village?"

Fritz, with an easy smile, answered: "Who is there to steal anything? We are all here?"

An Odd House.
One of the best known houses in Northamptonshire, England, was designed to represent the days, weeks and quarters of the year. It has four wings, facing the four quarters of the heavens, to represent the four quarters of the year; 365 windows, one for each day; fifty-two chimneys, one for each week, and seven entrances, to represent the seven days of the week.

Pretension.
The world is his who can see through its pretension. What deafness, what stone blind custom, what overgrown error you behold, is there only by your suffrance. See it to be a lie, and you have already dealt it its mortal blow.—Emerson.

In England, under the Tudors, the man who gave to a beggar was fined and the recipient of the gift was punished.

HOW THE TIGER KILLS.
Never Faces His Prey, but Attacks It on the Flank.

I have taken considerable trouble to find out how tigers kill large game. Some time ago I was asked to come and see a full grown bullock that had been killed by a tiger. On examining it I found the animal had its neck broken, and there were claw marks on the nose and shoulder, but nowhere else. There was no doubt that the tiger had jumped at the bull and landed on the shoulder, and when the bull turned his head to gore the tiger he must have put his claw out and with a sudden jerk broken the neck.

On another occasion I went to see a young buffalo which had been killed by a tiger and found the same thing had happened. There were similar marks on the nose and also on the near shoulder, which clearly indicated that this animal had been killed in the same way. Malays who have actually seen a tiger killing a buffalo told me they saw the same thing happen; also that in dragging off a heavy carcass, such as buffalo or bull, he gets most of the weight across his shoulder.

This must be fairly correct, as I have often followed a kill, and the marks left indicate that only a portion of the animal was trailing along the ground. I have known a full grown bull, which ten men could not move, dragged for two miles by a tiger in a heavy jungle, where roots of trees and swamp had to be gone through. In no case have I seen the pug marks facing the wrong way except when stopping to feed, which proves he must carry a portion of the animal over his shoulder.

The old idea of a tiger killing large game by a blow from his paw is nonsense; besides, in India a tiger never faces his prey, but attacks him on the flank unless charged. Another curious fact that may seem very like a fairy tale is that a tiger does not seem to mind a small lamp being tied over a kill about ten feet high, but will come and feed. I have known three occasions when this has been tried, and each time a tiger has come to feed upon the carcass.—London Field.

BRITISH BRIEFS.
England's first representative parliament assembled in 1265.

Caesar conquered Britain in the year 55 B. C. The Roman occupation continued nearly 500 years, or until 410 A. D.

In 1679 was passed the habeas corpus act, which, along with the right of trial by jury, is the great bulwark of Anglo-Saxon liberty.

The great plague was introduced into London in 1664 by bales of cotton imported from Holland; 100,000 persons succumbed to the disease in one year.

Cromwell's long parliament assembled in 1640; Charles I. was beheaded Jan. 30, 1646, and Cromwell became lord protector in 1653. In 1660 the Stuarts were restored to the throne.

Westminster abbey, where the kings and queens of Great Britain are crowned, was originally a Benedictine monastery. It was founded by Sebert, king of the East Saxons, about 616.

Byes on Bills.
Among the humorous memories connected with English judges is one of Justice Byles and his horse. This eminent jurist was well known in his profession for his work on "Byles," and as this gave a fine opportunity for alliteration his associates were accustomed to bestow the name on the horse, which was but a sorry steed. "There goes Byles on Bills," they took pleasure in saying, and as the judge rode out every afternoon they indulged daily in their little joke. But the truth was that the horse had another name, known only to the master and his man, and when a too curious client inquired as to the judge's whereabouts he was told by the servant, with a clear conscience, that "master was out on Business."

The Bengali.
The Bengali has the best brains of all the peoples in India and the readiest tongue. His memory is prodigious and his fertility in talk inexhaustible. He is something of an Irishman, something of an Italian, something of a Jew—if one can conceive an Irishman who would run away from a fight instead of running into it, an Italian without a sense of beauty and a Jew who would not risk £5 on the chance of making £500. He is very clever, but his cleverness does not lead him far on the road to achievement, for when it comes to doing, rather than talking, he is easily passed by people of far inferior ability.—London Standard.

Resources of Genius.
The editor looked over the manuscript submitted by the village poet and frowned.

"Here is one line," he said, "in which you speak of 'the music of the elder press.' How would you undertake to imitate the 'music' of the elder press?"

"I should think it might be done with a juice harp," answered the poet.—Chicago Tribune.

The Soft Answer.
"If nature had made me an ostrich," said old Grouch, "I suppose I could eat your cooking."

"Wouldn't that be nice?" answered his imperturbable spouse. "Then I could get some plumes for my hat."—Boston Transcript.

LAVA DESCENDS.

Five Streams From Vesuvius Threaten Everything Below.
Naples, April 5.—The eruption of Mount Vesuvius is assuming alarming proportions. Five streams of burning lava are descending the mountain, threatening everything below. Roaring explosions are heard for twenty miles around. Inhabitants of small villages near the crater are fleeing, while processions of villagers carrying images of saints and Madonnas and praying for cessation of the eruption were passing through neighboring towns. Smoke and ashes are carried so far all Naples is sprinkled with cinders. Neapolitans are not alarmed. In fact, they are rather glad, saying the new eruption of Vesuvius is in preparation for the arrival of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, who were expected Thursday.

Shipments were 850 cars, compared with 200 on Tuesday. By the first of next week he believes 20,000 men will be at work in the company's pits.

New York, April 5.—Thomas G. Rhoades, Jr., who claims to be the son of Thomas G. Rhoades of the supreme court of Arkansas, is under arrest here awaiting trial on a charge of petit larceny. When he was arraigned he pleaded guilty, but his case was postponed until Friday in order that Justice Rhoades might be communicated with. A telegram was sent to the justice by a probation officer. The young man, who is about thirty years old, said that he came here a few weeks ago with about $5,000, which, he stated, he spent or gave away. He was charged with the theft of a dress suit case. He said he had been forced to sleep in doorways and on trucks at night after his money was gone.
Little Rock advises say there is no Arkansas justice named Rhoades.

Tokio, April 5.—The long expected announcement of the open-door policy in Manchuria is confidently believed to be in the very near future. Woolen Will Wear IN ALL WEATHERS

Argue as they will, one fact remains: Cotton adulterated cloth will neither keep its shape nor wear under any conditions. Pure woolen cloth will. Our Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes are made of pure woolens, tested by the wool test, which is the beginning of all

Stein-Bloch Clothes

The only reason why cotton is substituted for wool in mercerized fabrics is to cheapen the goods. A house is no stronger than its foundation. So with clothes. Cheap fabrics mean cheap clothes; and no matter how shrewdly they are tailored, they will be untrustworthy. Stein-Bloch employ no mercerized or cotton adulterated fabrics. Their goods are pure caustic-tested wool, and the clothes made from them wear and keep their shape.

The Stein-Bloch Wool Test

The Stein-Bloch Wool Test consists of a boiling solution of water and caustic potash, the chemical action of which dissolves wool but not cotton. The two samples here shown were originally of the same length, the test proved one to be all wool, consuming the part immersed and leaving only the blackened edge. The other proved to be an adulteration containing a large per cent of mercerized cotton.

Stein-Bloch Suits $17.50 to $25.00

Kirschbaum Suits $10.00 $12.50 $15.00

Kirschbaum Clothing Plant is the largest in the world, and these clothes from $10.00 to $15.00 have no equal. Give us a look, we can please you.

SIX-MILE FIGHT.

Zulus Pursued Police, Killing Three and Wounding Several.

Greytown, Natal, April 5.—The colonial field force, which is concentrating at Ampanza, twelve miles northwest of Greytown, for operations against the insurgent Chief Bambaata, deposed the regent of the Greytown district. He has been compelled to leave Greytown.

A proportion of the force sent to rescue women and children isolated at Keate's Drift succeeded in escaping, but while returning was attacked by rebellious natives. A running fight was kept up for six miles, the Zulus continuing pursuit until within a mile of Greytown. Three colonial police were killed and several wounded. The remainder are safe at Greytown. Police report the rebels in strong numbers and flushed with victory, and officials fear further excesses. A strong force of artillery, infantry and mounted men moved out of Greytown to operate against the rebels. A laager has been formed and every preparation has been made to defend Greytown in case of attack.

TO MODIFY DEMANDS.

This Action to Be Taken by Mine Workers' Representatives.

New York, April 5.—No noteworthy features occurred Wednesday in the labor trouble in the anthracite coal regions. Nearly all the operations in the fields remain tied up, and there are no indications that work will soon be resumed. The miners' committee held an all-day session in New York considering plans, and at the conclusion of the meeting it was reported that the mine workers' representatives had decided to modify their demands. President Mitchell declined to make any comment on the situation, and also refused to confirm or deny the reports of concessions.

In the bituminous coal fields there were more mines in operation than on the previous day, and many more are to resume within a day or two. The number of men at work in the Pittsburgh district, however, was not as large as was expected. This was due, it is said, to the factional troubles within the miners' union in that territory. Negotiations are under way between the miners and operators in several districts outside of the Central and Southwestern territories, and while no agreements have yet been reached, no serious trouble is anticipated.

The workers' leaders were much pleased when they learned that President Roosevelt took a hand in the soft coal strike so long as the situation remains as at present. Slight disturbances were reported from several points in the anthracite and bituminous regions, but as a whole the strike affected territory remains quiet.

REPLY OF PRESIDENT.

Not Prepared to Say What He Will Do Personally.

Columbus, O., April 5.—John B. Winder, president of the Ohio Operators' association, gave out in part a letter addressed from President Roosevelt at Charleston, W. Va., in which the president answers the request of a commission to be appointed by him to settle the miners' strike. The president writes: "To appoint a commission to meet with the miners and operators, as you request, would necessitate action on the part of congress. As yet I am not prepared to say what action I personally will or can take in the matter."

STAGECOACHING DAYS.

An Old World Era with a Decided Flavor of Romance.

The old coaching days, as far as convenience for travel was concerned, were the dawn of the great days of our present rapid means of communication. The seventy years or so in which mail coaches waxed and flourished and finally died out before the incursion of railways and steam engines have a decided flavor of romance attached to them, and no doubt the coming and going of stagecoaches lent a certain amount of color and interest and life to the country places and towns through which ran the great main coaching roads. The Bath road, the Dover road, the York road were highways of communication along which rolled the heavy private coaches and chariots of the country magnates, and the stagecoaches with their steaming horses passed the various stopping places with the regularity of clock-work.

These stagecoaches, with their complement of coachmen and guards, afforded endless subjects of interest and illustration to the artist and the literary men of the day. Imagine Charles Dickens without stagecoaches and denuded of all his vivid descriptions of the scenes such as those in the yard of the White Hart inn, High street, Borough, in "Pickwick," or of the mail coach on the Dover road in "A Tale of Two Cities." It is difficult for the present generation to realize the fatigue and the wintry cold of such long journeys, when frozen feet were enveloped in a little straw, and a "shawl" folded round the neck was thought to be a fit protection against the keen night air.—London Standard.

THE PRIVATE WON.

Rebuked His Superior Officer and Escaped Court Martial.

Charles Bradlaugh when in the British army was orderly room clerk, and a newly arrived officer once entered the room where he was sitting at work and addressed to him some discourteous order. Private Bradlaugh took no notice. The order was repeated with an oath. Still no movement. Then it came again, with some foul words added. The young soldier rose, drew himself to his full height and, walking up to the officer, bade him leave the room or he would throw him out. He went accordingly, but in a few moments the grounding of muskets was heard outside, the door opened and the colonel walked in, accompanied by the officer.

It was clear that the private soldier had committed an act for which he might be court martialled, and as he said once, "I felt myself in a tight place." The officer made his accusation, and Private Bradlaugh was bidden to explain. He asked that the officer should state the exact words in which he had addressed him, and the other, who had, after all, a touch of honor in him, gave the offensive sentence word for word. Then Private Bradlaugh said, addressing the colonel, that the officer's memory must surely be at fault in the whole matter, as he could not have used language so unbecoming to an officer and a gentleman. The colonel turned to the officer with the dry remark: "I think Private Bradlaugh is right. There must be some mistake." And he left the room.

A Scotch Test.

Auchtermuchty is the happy town which every Scot, proud of his unpronounceable tongue, uses as a shibboleth to test the linguistic skill of the southron. If you cannot say "Auchtermuchty" you are still an uneducated barbarian. The meaning of the word happens to be as monstrous as its sound. "The high ground of the wild sow" is not a name one would choose for a garden city. People, however, are found to flock to it as a summer resort, and as it has a lover's pool, the town has probably attractions more real than its name. In the early part of last century Auchtermuchty went bankrupt and was deprived of all its property except the jail and one or two other assets of an equally necessary character. It is now rich, peaceful and radical.

Really a Human Being.

The story is told in China that years ago a missionary made his appearance upon a platform there and that the native orator who introduced him closed with these words: "When I have finished a gentleman from the west is going to address you. He is not a foreign demon. His appearance and his clothing may seem strange to you, but look carefully at him. He has two arms and two legs, two ears and two eyes, a nose (though a long one) and a mouth; and I assure you his teeth are made of bone, just like yours. He is really a human being, and I hope you will regard him as such."

A Bank Fraud.

Mrs. Nuwed—Here's the bread I started to make today. Isn't it too annoying? Mr. Nuwed—Why, it isn't baked at all. Mrs. Nuwed—I know it isn't; that's just it. I put plenty of baking powder in it, but it doesn't seem to have worked.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Question of Cats.

"There is no short cut to fame," remarked the wise guy.

"How about the upper cut?" suggested the simple mug, looking up from the sporting page.—Philadelphia Record.

Enamel.

"Oh, dear, how the hours do drag! I wish I knew how to hurry them on."

"Why don't you apply the spur of the moment?"

A GENEROUS CRITIC.

Story of John Oxenford, a Once Famous London Character.

John Oxenford was for years the leading theatrical critic of London. Mr. Oxenford was troubled with a serious bronchial affection, which occasionally disturbed the audience, for he refused to give up his beloved theater, although desperately ill. A certain rising young actor was very anxious to obtain Oxenford's valuable opinion on his work, and the tender hearted old gentleman literally left his bed and came down to the theater on a bitter cold night to do a good action to a clever youngster. In the middle of one of the actor's finest scenes on came the cough from the Oxenford box. It continued so long that it unnerved the actor, and he came to a dead stop. To the surprise of everybody he advanced to the front and said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I am sorry to say that unless the old gentleman with the irritating cough retires temporarily from the theater I really cannot go on. I forget everything. It is painful so to address you, but I am powerless in the matter and place myself in your hands."

The disturbance at once ceased, and the box was empty. When the curtain fell a friend rushed around and, breathless, said to the distressed actor: "Do you know what you have done? Do you know who it was that you turned out of the box?" "I neither know nor care," was the reply. "Why, it was John Oxenford!" The actor was paralyzed, but he got his good notice all the same. The veteran critic went home coughing to praise the young actor who had turned him out.

JUDGING DOGS.

The Rules by Which the Different Points Are Valued.

The average man is greatly puzzled to find one dog awarded a first prize and another, which to him appears to be quite as fine a specimen, awarded no prize at all. A man who knows the relative values of the different points in all breeds of dogs is a veritable walking encyclopedia.

Generally speaking, the best dog is one which comes nearest the standard of requirements for its own particular breed, about 25 per cent of the points being usually awarded for fine head proportions, an equal number for legs and feet, a similar number for body and color and the rest for symmetry.

In the Dalmatian, for instance, thirty points are given for color and markings, while head, eyes and ears have only fifteen; the bulldog, on the other hand, has forty-five for head and ears, while coat and color amount to but five points; the collie has twenty-five for coat, color being immaterial, and twenty-five for head and ears.

The St. Bernard has forty for head and ears and five each for coat and color. The Pomeranian has but fifteen for head and ears, forty-five points going for coat, color and tail, with fifteen for appearance. It may be set down as governing in all breeds of dogs that whatever is the typical feature of that breed is the feature upon which stress is laid in the allotment of points.

The Ant's Cow.

The aphid, one of the most widely distributed species of insects known to the entomologists, is sometimes referred to as the "ant's cow." The aphid actually gives milk, although the creature itself is so small that it is estimated to weigh but the one one-thousandth of a grain. Out of the back of the aphid project two hollow tubes. These connect with ducts in the body, which secrete a sweet liquid. When the tubes are touched the liquid exudes in small drops. The ants know this, and they make a regular business of tickling the tubes of the little aphid to make her "give down her milk." The ant is very fond of this saccharine food and will "milk" a hundred aphides in the course of an hour.

Wouldn't Trust Him.

"Of course," said the sarcastic man, "you always do your wife's bidding." "Gracious! No!" replied Mr. Henpeck. "She wouldn't let me. When she goes to an auction sale she never takes me with her."—Philadelphia Press.
